HAVE YOUR SAY ON CALEDON'S COMMUNITY CLIMATE CHANGE ACTION PLAN

The Town of Caledon, widely-respected for its progressive approach on environmental matters, has been developing a Community Climate Change Action Plan since November 2010.

In Canada, municipal activities account for 44% of greenhouse gas emissions. Caledon's Action Plan is a step in the right direction towards dealing with climate change and greenhouse gas emissions.

"Caledon understands that the journey to sustainability must be a community approach that starts with ideas and goals," said Mayor Marolyn Morrison. "Suggestions and commitment from Caledon residents will take this Action Plan to the next level and increase environmental awareness."

A Community Working Group of representatives from key sectors developed a draft Action Plan. Some of the proposed actions include: renewable energy use, waste reduction, new green and low impact development and agricultural activities aimed at reducing emissions.

The Town is seeking additional community input to help develop potential greenhouse gas reduction actions.
